ABOUT THE COVER

Inspite the pandemic, the CHED Regional Office XI, together with the Higher Education Institutions in the Region were able to navigate and shifted into the new normal. The Office was able to perform more than the targets which are within their control and a little bit short on the two targets which are not within their control. With resilience and commitment to serve, the Office proves once again their will power to flourish. The seeds it planted last year turned into beautiful and resilient flowers this Year.

Message

from the

REGIONAL DIRECTOR

Dr. Maricar R. Casquejo, CESO III

Director IV

The Year 2020 is my second year as Regional Director in CHED Regional Office XI. In general, this Year was full of challenges. Due to the COVID 19 pandemic, our lives are radically changed, the higher education just like all other sectors is shaken, our economies faltered, but on a positive note, this has also provided us – both the Office and the Higher Education Institutions the opportunity to rethink our ways of management, challenge the status quo and brought significant reforms to the higher education system.

In addition to facing the challenges brought about by the pandemic, I was also given this year, the opportunity to serve as OIC, Office of the President of the Davao del Sur State College, a newly created State College in the Region from the start of the year until the end of the third quarter. Moreover, work results and output were somehow affected due to adoption of the Work From Home Scheme and the optional retirement of the four (4) organic personnel in the last quarter of the Year. The Regional Office was also given additional slots for grantees and scholarships due to the implementation of the various programs of the government that assist affected individuals. In spite of both the opportunities and constraints brought about by the pandemic, some additional assignments in the exigency of service, the preparations for new normal, the Regional Office, together with the Higher Education Institutions were able to navigate its operations and shifted into the new normal. Through the Bayanihan spirit, coupled with resiliency, understanding and perseverance, more significant changes and improvements both for CHED RO XI and its internal and external stakeholders took place, as what have taken off in the previous year were enhanced and strengthened. Although we are a little bit short on two targets which are not within our control, generally, the Regional Office was able to perform more than the targets. For this Year, CHED RO XI serves as street lights along the roads of HEIs' initiatives in shifting to new normal without compromising quality and excellence of services. We light up their paths and make the walks worthwhile while they develop their Learning Management System, course packs, enhance their standard operating systems to suit in the new normal, and provide some solutions on their issues and concerns.

This 2020 CHED RO XI Annual Report is the reflection of all the accomplishments and milestones of the Regional Office in navigating the new normal. This can be used as reference of the Higher Education Institutions in Davao Region and other interested parties in planning out directions and priorities for the next years.

As usual, I am thankful to the CHED RO XI Personnel, my Superiors and Counterparts in the CHED Central Office, our partners, for both the good and the challenges that happened this Year.

Cheers to another year of realizing our thrusts and programs on internal and external efficiency, resiliency in times of pandemic, providing solutions, and in becoming this Regional Office an instrument in providing quality, relevant, responsive and accessible education!

Executive Summary

The Year 2020 brought global impact due to the COVID-19 pandemic as it led to losses of millions of human lives and presents an unprecedented challenge to our frontliners, health workers, and the world of work. Despite the health crisis that the whole world is facing, the Commission on Higher Education Regional Office XI (CHED RO XI) continuously provided the needed assistance in any form to one hundred three (103) Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) for the Year 2020. The Regional Office also conducted a total of 63 activities related to technical assistance for the attainment of the outcomes, as regards to STUFAPs, GAD, Research and Extension, PSGs/CMOs dialogue, which marked 126% higher than the annual target. Moreover, the Office was able to cater to 8,950 stakeholders who are recipients from the activities conducted and facilitated as experts or as resource persons for the series of webinars, which noticeably marked 347.5% higher.

The SUCs were guided, facilitated and monitored in their applications for COPC. As a result, the HEIs felt the developmental approach of the Regional Office. Commitments to comply in a given timeline through submission of an action plan by the HEIs with major deficiencies were sought. These dialogues and guidance will be continued until all HEIs in the Region will attain compliance. One (1) Local College, which is the Sto. Tomas College of Arts, Science and Technology (STCAST) was issued with Certificate of Recognition this year. For the number of programs subjected to standard and issued with permits, there were 57 for Initial Permit, 24 for Renewal Permits, 15 for Government Recognition, and 55 programs issued with COPC.

On the number of curricula revisions, the Office processed a total of 179 programs duly contents noted, which marked over and above the total annual target. For the number of IEC materials developed/published, this Office published its Statistical Bulletin, Annual Report and the Volume 1 of the Compendium of Thesis and Dissertation Abstracts of the SGS-L 2020 Graduates.

Pertaining to the Frontline Services, despite that the whole Region was placed under Enhanced Community Quarantine (ECQ) during the second quarter, Modified General Community Quarantine (MGQC) on the third quarter and returned to General Community Quarantine (GCQ) towards the last quarter, the CHED RO XI was still able to deliver services to stakeholders. For the Utilization of Budget, as of the last working day for 2020, the CHED RO XI made extra efforts for the full utilization of the allocated amount downloaded for the Region. The formulation of this framework was inspired by Commissioner Lilian A. De Las Ilagas, with the support and participation of NEDA XI Regional Director Maria Lourdes D. Lim and DOST XI Regional Director Anthony C. Sales. This was presented to the Social Development Council and then to the Regional Development Council. The Council Members find the framework encompassing, responsive to what Region XI envisioned to be, and support the implementation of the framework and made this as one of the bases of the Region towards Fourth Industrial Revolution. The implementation of this framework was supported thru the passing of RDC Resolution No. 104, Series of 2020.

As a result, several faculty members of HEIs in the Region have received Php5,000.00 each, one-time subsidy.
5. Provided technical assistance and guidance to the 103 public and private HEIs in the Region in the formulation of their Learning Continuity Plan. To ensure that all components of the plan were covered, a checklist was formulated for the guidance of the HEIs on the contents of the plan. Inputs were also provided as to how the HEIs will operate under the new normal.
